BUILDING PIERS ILLEGALLY. INVESTIGATION OF ALLEGED IRREGULARITIES IN THE DOCK DEPARTMENT-THE NEW-YORK CEN-

TRAL'S RIVER FRONT PROPERTY. Considerable uneasiness is manifested in the Dock Department as to what will be the result of an investigation which is to take place to-day by the ommissioners of the Sinking Fund into an alleged violation of the law by the Dock Department, under the pretence of improving the water front. On November 13 the Dock Commissioners adopted a for a new pier at Sixty-fifth-st., and plans for two piers which reported as new, but which had been built at Sixty-third and Sixty-fourth-sts., North River and directed that these plans be transmitted to the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund for their approval. It appears that in May, 1874, the New-York Central Railroad applied to the Dock Commissioners, who were then Messrs. Westervelt, Gard-

The affidavit s signed by John Brown, the resident physician of An examination showed a rose-red semi-confluent papular eruption on the face, neck and arms. There was a similar cruption on the soft palate in the pharynx. The patient refused to give any history, and a diagnosis was not to be made from the physical signs alone. In accordance with the request of the Sanitary Bureau it was immediately informed to the effect. The patient was placed in a room on a floor where no contarious disease had been for three months. The next morning she gave the fol-three months. The next morning she gave the following history:

"On November 12, 1879, I was taken suddenly with a chill followed by severe headache, pains in the back and legs, vomiting, fever, loss of appetite, sleepiessness and constipation. These symptoms remained until the appearance of the cruption, November 16, when the pain in the back and legs ceased and the headache and fever almost entirely disappeared. The cruption made its first appearance on the forchead, was accompanied by some burning and itching and gradually extended over the rest of the face and neck and arms."

The history was so clearly that of small-pox that an odinion was telegraphed to the Sanitary Bureau to that effect. The same afternoon Miss Brown was again examined and a dlagnosis of acute eczema was arrived at. Miss Brown was then informed, the affidayit continues, that she might leave the hospital, either to return home or to be transferred to another hospital. She expressed herself well satisfied with the care she had received, and asked to be allowed to remain until her entire recovery. There being no small-pox in the hospital, her request was granted. On the morning of November 20, Dr. Taylor, chief of the vaccinating corps, was informed by letter that Miss Brown's case was not one of small-pox. Sunday, November 23, the patient was visited by her brother, Robert Brown, of Providence, R. L. who expressed himself well pleased with her surroundings, told her that he was satisfied that her case was one in which an error might readily be made, and asked to have her allowed to remain in the hospital until her recovery. Dr. Fenner, of No. 326 Lexington-ave, reported the health floard on Monday that Alexander 15, a child of eight years, was sick with the sufficient of the patient that his recovered from the chicken-pox, the disease was one the chicken-pox, the disease was one suspected small-pox was also reported from, the disease as a brother of the patient had his recovered from the chicken-pox, the disease was one for the same character. Several other vetoes were read, and when it became evident that the Mayor had not sent in a veto of the Chambers Street Crosstown Railroad scheme, Alderman Stewart moved that the Board adjourn to Thursday. The motion was carried. It was generally reported that the object of meeting Thursday is to receive the Mayor's veto of the crosstown railroad job, as the time for a veto will have then expired. The Aldermen who voted for the adjournment all voted for the crosstown railroad.

THE TROUBLE WITH THE PILOTS,

The Committee of ten appointed by the Maritime Exchange to investigate and devise measures of relief from the excessive port charges of New-York, met at No. 66 Beaver-st., yesterday and completed their plans. The material for a pamphlet was read which is to be sent, it was card, to each member of every State Legislature, each member of Congress, every officer holding position under State or National Government, and to every person interested in the Merchant Marine of the Nation. The form of a subscription list was adopted. The pilots of the Hercules sent to the Commissioners yesterday the report of their earnings, which amounted to $1,097.64, and inclosed a check for the 2 per cent commission according to the bylaws. The Commissioners refused to receive the check as they do not recognize the Hercules as a pilot boat.

THE BELLEVUE HOSPITAL FIRE. There were no new facts yesterday as to the origin of the Bellevue Hospital fire. Dr. James R. Wood. the well-known surgeon, said to a TRIBUNE reporter: "I can't account for the fire, though I made a careful inspection of the buildings yesterday. It could not have caught from the stove, for that was some distance from the room in which the fire origi, nated. I understand, however, that there were ether and other drugs in the room, and this fact may help out the theory of spontaneous combustion. Those pavilions are little less than tinder-boxes, and I wonder that the fire was so slight."

The witness had some beer out of a small glass with a red mark on it before Voikmer came in. The beer was brought in by Mrs. Voikmer and she drank of it. After druking a second glass he felt a pain in his head, and after taking a third glass he vomited. Mrs. Voikmer to each instance poured out the beer and it was handed to him by Mrs. Connoily. While they were drinking Voikmer came in, and there being no more beer in the pitcher, the witness offered him what remained in his glass. On this both the women became anarry, and said that it was in insult to offer a man half a glass of ocer. As he felt so thwell, and as his head pained him so much, he asked Voikmer to allow him to lie down on his bed. Voikmer at first volunteered to accompany him to his hotel, but when he found he could not wak he agreed to allow him to remain all night. He slept on the outside of the bed, which was eccupied by Mr. and Mrs. Voikmer. Mrs. Connoily slept in the kitchen, on a mattress on the floor. AN INJUNCTION TO PROTECT A GRAVE. CURIOUS DISPUTE OVER THE RESTING-PLACE OF

An injunction granted by Justice Brady at his home Monday night raises the question of the right of cemeter; authorities to remove a body once interred. Morris Solomon has been a member of the Hebrew so-clety "Chebra Novi Zadik" for nineteen years, Through his membership, his family were entitled at his death, or December 3, to the right of having him buried in Cy-press Hills Cemetery. H. Cohn, president of the society, instructed the sexten to have him buried next to the grave of Julius Daniel. The name was mistaken, the grave could not be found, and the bedy was butlet in another spot. The trustees of the society list Sanday decided to have the body disinterred and buried in the right place. But some of the relatives, having heard of this proposed action, were at the grave when the cemetery officers and workmen came, and would not allow the bedy to be removed. It was necessary to summon police officers to prevent a quarrel. An agreement was made to suspend further action until a meeting of the Hebrew society could be held.

In the meentime Herman Joseph, counsel for Solomon's friends, obtained from Justice Brady an injunction restraining all persons from interfering win the grave. In the complaint it is claimed that "it has been one of the rights of the Jewish faith and the helief of the members of said society that the place of burial of one of their members, upon said burial becoming complete, becomes fixed, permanent, invisible and undisturbed forever." The injunction is made returnable on December 17. grave could not be found, and the body was buriel in
